Message from JUMP! Development Manager

When I applied for the position of JUMP! Development manager back in September of 2016, I was immediately impressed by JUMP! Development’s impact on underprivileged youths around the world and was impassioned to be a part of this change-making process.

As someone who has taken part in development projects in rural Kenya, state-wide initiatives at a U.S. state department of education, and multi-million dollar national education studies in the U.S., I am deeply aware of the crucial roles financial and human resources play in designing and delivering quality projects. JUMP! Development is no exception; since 2015, the BBS grant has supported most of the operation and program cost of JUMP! Development, allowing us to build a team of one full-time staff and several program-specific staff, and create a structure on which to scale our program and impact. In just two years, the BBS funded JUMP! Development to deliver 11 JLCs in partnership with four community NGOs, serving over 1,000 youths across three continents. Through JLCs, BBS has taken part in inspiring and empowering underprivileged youths to discover their potential to be changemakers, and engaging and mobilizing these youths to actively find solutions to some of the the most pressing challenges in their communities.

As the famous African proverb goes, “It takes a village to raise a child.” In the case of youth development in underserved areas, it takes three villages worth of funding and manpower. Together with NGO partners and BBS, JUMP! Development will continue our effort in helping underprivileged youths find sustainable solutions to local challenges.

OUR 2016 RESULTS

The BBS Grant supported JUMP! Development to expand its reach beyond Nicaragua, Haiti, and the Dominican Republic to Kenya, China, Cambodia and Thailand, co-organizing JUMP! Leadership Conferences with local NGOs in seven countries in three continents. Together with our partners, we served a total of 771 youths from rural areas, urban slums, migrant communities, and post-disaster areas, transforming youths’ lives one J!Development program at a time.

“These sessions were very interactive and [the conference] was centered more on us, the participants, to give solutions to problems we face as a community.”
– 2016 JLC Nairobi Participant

Young people’s commitment to change is inspiring; but more importantly, it’s necessary and crucial. They are undoubtedly active change agents of their own communities but also of each other. I saw this unshakable commitment in Haiti’s JUMP! Leadership Conference partnered with Global Potential. I saw this relentless commitment when local youth from Barasa and Port au Prince traveled 2.5 hours on foot through the hills of Haiti to get to this 3-day conference where they were able to equip themselves to change the realities of their own communities. Again, I saw this unflinching commitment when youth chose to come together to speak out about grave issues affecting their communities. I saw the responsibility these students decided to take on by speaking stark truths of violence, deforestation, high number of youth death, lack of woman and LGBTQ rights.

These conversations completely led by local youth change lives. It changes lives because it inspires youth to think of solutions, it empowers them to reach for resources they need and it engages them to be the change they want to see in their own communities. These youth were then given the opportunity to access a small pocket of funding for new community projects that would also connect them with mentors for continual guidance. There were a total of 8 projects presented at this conference that addressed today’s most compelling issues in Haiti, such as deforestation, teen pregnancy, poverty, education pollution, school buildings, and more. More importantly, those that vote for the winning project were none other than local youth themselves.

The youth council from the Barasa community is composed primarily of local leaders between the ages of 16-27; their own communities voted them into position. These local leaders help organize, and run the entire conference by encouraging conversation, voting for the winning project and ultimately empowering youth with similar backgrounds. With their guidance and experience the winning project of deforestation can take off and help those locally impacted.

THANK YOU

On behalf of everyone at JUMP! Foundation, I would like to express our deepest gratitude for your generous donation to and support for our mission. With your financial contributions, you have demonstrated your deep commitment to our work in youth development.

We sincerely welcome members of BBS to attend the JUMP! Leadership Conferences or any of our programs for this year. It would be our honor to have you experience our youths being engaged, inspired, and empowered through our programs.

Thank you again for your continuing support. We always strive to live up to our achievements of previous years. We promise to keep you updated of our progress. If you require further details or should you have any questions about the activities, feel free to contact me at irene.wu@jumpfoundation.org or at +86 18311050232.

OVERVIEW

Having a full-time staff entirely focused on J! Development helped design our implementation and evaluation framework, increased exposure of the JUMP Foundation amongst different governmental and non-governmental organizations, while also creating more opportunities for collaboration across organizations. Thanks to this partnership, we have the capacity in developing and delivering youth development program interventions.

IMPACT OF FUNDS ON ORGANIZATION

J! Development Team

Our team has grown much compared to 2015. The Team now includes:

Indra Ganzorig - Development Manager

Indra is an education enthusiast from Mongolia who is passionate about youth and community development. In 2013, she began her career as the Education Project Manager at Go Help UK Charity, a UK-based NGO empowering children and young people through libraries and educational centers. At Go Help, she initiated a mobile library project called “Tales on Horseback” and travelled to the countryside promoting literacy in underserved areas by offering books and free internet access. In 2014, Indra joined the Center for Citizenship Education as the Youth Development Officer, where she partnered with the UN Population Fund to implement the Youth Development Project and advocated for national policies related to youth issues. Aside from work, Indra is an avid member of the TED community, organizing TEDx events and translating TED Talks into Mongolian.

Jasnam Sachathep – Thailand Conference Coordinator (Intern)

Jasnam Sachathep is a Thai-Indian who has lived in Bangkok all her life. She is new to the JUMP! team and is passionate about bringing change to Thailand and the world. She has worked in the public sector with many different NGOs since she received her degrees in university. Jasnam got her Bachelor’s degree from Brandeis University in M.A., USA in triple majors Economics, Sociology and International Global Studies. She is currently pursuing her Masters of International Teaching so that she can fulfill her dream of being a teacher. She believes that education is an essential key to success and everyone should have the right to be educated. She loves the outdoors and is an adrenaline junky.

Michou Tchana-Hyman - Project Manager

Michou was born in New York City to an American mother and Cameroonian Father. Michou’s sense of adventure and pushing the boundaries of traditional education led him to pursue academic interests abroad. In high school Michou studied abroad in Costa Rica, and over the course of his college career completed an internship in Spain, Thailand, and conducted a major creative research project on story telling traditions in Cameroon. During his last semester of college, Michou completed an internship in Chiang Mai, Thailand, at a small, education-focused, community-based organization called Bridging Education-gaps Among Migrants (BEAM). At BEAM, Michou worked on projects to advance the Myanmar migrant education system in Thailand, and was offered a teaching position upon completion of his internship and college career.
Much of this quarter has been spent on designing the implementation and evaluation frameworks of the JUMP! Foundation’s J! Development stream. These tools outline all aspects of the J! Development projects and JUMP! Leadership Conference Model (JLC):

Documents & Resources

1. Partnership Framework provides information on how to establish and manage the partnerships of J! Development
2. Monitoring & Evaluation Framework measures the effectiveness of program interventions
3. Communications Strategic Plan 2016-2017 provides information and guidelines on internal and external communications

JUMP! Leadership Conference Resources

1. Concept Note provides overview of the JLC
2. Curriculum Framework outlines desired content of the JLC
3. Mentorship Guide sets expectations and provides guidelines for mentoring participants of the JLC
4. Organizer’s Manual is a tool for Partner Organizations to successfully organize JLC in their country

Partnerships

Managing existing partnerships

This quarter we strengthened our existing partnerships with Global Potential and Paamoja by signing MoUs and Partnership Agreements. These agreements commit both parties to effectively implementing and delivering on desired outcomes.

Developing new partnerships

The JUMP! Development team has significantly increased the number of new partnerships and created strong relations with like-minded organizations and social enterprises. Highlights of this past quarter include:

JLC Bangkok Visioning Meeting was held with representatives from 6 different organizations to develop a clear vision for the conference and tailor it to align with the Thai cultural context and create actionable steps with different organizations assigned to each task.

Thailand’s leading social science institute Thammasat University and Asian Leadership Academy will support facilitation of program interventions in Thai.

The CSR team at Loxley Ltd., a major Thai trading conglomerate, introduced the J! Development team to NGOs working in youth development in “70 Rai”, one of Bangkok’s most impoverished urban districts.

We have received interest from the regional office of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) to support them in finding the right candidates to join their ChangeMakers Network and facilitate workshops to prepare the future leaders of countries in Asia and the Pacific.
Regional office of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) expressed their interest to co-host a regional conference on 10 December 2016, to mark International Human Rights Day with the theme “Our Rights”. “Our Rights” is an Asia-Pacific wide campaign to put a human face on key rights issues.

We are organizing the Open Society Foundation’s Conference with Progression Leadership. The conference will take place over two days, 28-29 April 2016 at the Hotel Pullman G in Bangkok, Thailand. Approximately 124 participants from throughout the Open Society Foundation scholarship and fellowship programs will be attending the conference.

IMPACT OF FUNDS ON JUMP! LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

JLC Bangkok

The conference will take place from the 14-15 of May from 9:00-17:00 at the Ma.D Club for Better Society in Bangkok. The registration application was launched online on the 15th of March and participants will receive pre-conference assignments in the form of a Participant Guide with suggested readings on sustainable development and social entrepreneurship, relevant videos (TED Talks or TED-Ed lessons), photo essay submissions, etc. The participant experience includes:

- A rich program with interactive and hands on activities, brainstorming on a vast array of topics, and discussions on issues facing Thai youth
- Crash Course on Design Thinking
- Time for unstructured connection and engagement
- Small gift bag for future change-makers

JLC Nairobi

The JLC Nairobi team is excited to announce that they have also located and reserved a venue site for the 2016 conference. Not only that but the team has also developed the curriculum for the conference, and assigned those roles to team members. The dates for the JLC Nairobi have been set: 17-18 June 2016. One of the main focuses of the JLC Nairobi is to provide equal opportunities to young people with disabilities by involving a local NGO to invite guides and interpreters for people with disabilities.
THANK YOU

On behalf of everyone at JUMP! Foundation, I would like to express our deepest thanks for your generous donation and support to our mission. With your financial contributions, you’ve demonstrated your deep commitment to our work of youth development.

We have received the Business for Better Society logo images you sent through and will pass them on to our partners. In addition we have included the logo in the newsletters, which have recently been sent out to our networks.

If anyone from BBS would like to attend the JUMP! Leadership Conferences or any of our programs for this year, you would be a most welcome guest.

Thank you again for your continued support. We hope that we will live up to our achievements of previous years. We promise to keep you updated of our progress.

If you require further details or should you have any questions about the activities, feel free to contact me at indra.ganzorig@jump.foundation.org or at +66 0626-586-014.

IMPACT OF FUNDS ON ORGANIZATION

Team members
This quarter we had a new team member from our China Hub who started working on the conferences in Latin America.

Esmeralda Herrera
Hailing from Bronx, NYC, Esmeralda Herrera holds a Bachelor degree from Reed College where she studied Linguistics and Political Science. Since then, Esmeralda has worked in over 15 public/alternative schools in both New York City and Portland, Oregon. In Portland she has led her own alternative educational program with a strong social work lens. Ms. Herrera has both grown-up and engaged in a diverse set of programming and event management for organizations like Harlem’s Children Zone, AmeriCorps, Reed College’s Office for Institutional Diversity, and Cascade Aids to name a few. She has led, designed, and executed Latino identity, access to education, young girls empowerment, and many more programs for underserved youth. By the means of her programs she has served diverse populations including students of color, LGBTQ students, first-generation students, students from low socio-economic backgrounds, first-generation Americans, and students with disabilities. As a woman of color from Puerto Rican and Guatemalan descent raised by Dominican grandparents, Esmeralda’s upbringing in the Bronx afforded her the opportunity to do life alongside people coming from a wide variety of cultures, poverty levels, lifestyles, religions, and identities which has empowered her various community engagement initiatives both in the Bronx and in Portland.

Partnerships
Managing existing partnerships
This quarter we strengthened our existing partnerships with Paamoja working together on the RUKA! Youth Leadership conference for 10 days. This allowed us to identify opportunities where we could grow as partnering organizations. During the visit, we were also able to visit informal schools around Kibera and Mathare slum areas.
Developing new partnerships

Highlights of this past quarter include:

- UNDP Asia and the Pacific
  While attending one of the regional workshops organized by United Nations Development Programme, we were able to get introduced to young change-makers from the region as well as potential partners. This was the start of an ongoing discussion about potential collaboration between JUMP and UNDP to revamp how UNDP’s 24 country offices deliver their conferences and workshops throughout the region.

IMPACT OF FUNDS ON JUMP! LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

JLC Bangkok

The pilot JUMP! Leadership Conference was held in Bangkok, Thailand and took a local name, which means to ‘move forward.’ It was a two-day weekend conference on May 14 – 15, 2016 and was held at Ma:D Club for Better Society – a social enterprise hub in Bangkok. The participants had the opportunity to learn about design thinking and project creation. They got down to identifying problems in their communities and came up with tangible solutions as their social impact projects. There were a total of 4 projects presented at the conference that addressed today’s most compelling issues in Thailand, such as drought, teen pregnancy, plastic pollution and education. The two winning youth teams are working on the issue of teen pregnancy and wrong plastic waste separation. It was an inspirational weekend full of ideas, solution, collaboration, and with so much gained; the participants were true change-makers who felt the need to make a difference in their communities.

JLC Nairobi

A series of pre-conference workshops took us to 6 Nairobi slums - Kariobangi, Githurai, Dagoretti, Kibera, Mukuru and Mathare, helping us introduce the concept of social entrepreneurship and preparing the participants as individuals for the conference.
In the morning of the first day, the conference started off with energizing activities and with an inspiring speech from our keynote speaker Roshan Paul. The next sessions saw participants visit eight of the most impactful community projects in Mathare. Those eight organizations are tackling different challenges ranging from health, education, youth empowerment, and hygiene. This was a chance for our participants to learn why these organizations exist, how they operate and the biggest challenges they face as agents of change. In the afternoon of Day One, participants engaged in activities that were more focused on discovering who are the community members and teambuilding. Afterwards, they identified common challenges and formed groups to brainstorm and develop solutions to those by using problem analysis and project development tools.

On the second day, the participants had the option to stay with their groups or join a different group that was working on a community impact idea that was close to their hearts. This process was achieved through the open space conference methodology – introduced on the first day - that gives participants freedom to come up with ideas, shape them as well as join other teams if need be. Participants also had the option to choose different open-space sessions hosted and facilitated by our panelists: art of pitching, sales and marketing, youth advocacy and fundraising. These workshops equipped the participants with practical skills and tools that help them carry on their projects even after the conference.

At the end of Day Two, the groups finally had a chance to present their ideas to the panel of judges made up of experienced social entrepreneurs. Out of the six ideas that emerged during the conference, both the participants and judges selected two ideas as the most viable projects.
THANK YOU

On behalf of everyone at JUMP! Foundation, I would like to express our gratitude for your continued support to our mission. With your financial contributions, you’ve demonstrated your deep commitment to our work of youth development.

If anyone from BBS would like to attend the JUMP! Leadership Conferences or any of our programs for this year, you would be a most welcome guest.

Thank you again for your support. We hope that we will only improve by each passing quarter and help more young people make impact around the world.

If you require further details or should you have any questions about the activities, feel free to contact me at indra.ganzorig@jump.foundation.org or at +66 0626-586-014.

Sincerely,

Indra Ganzorig,
Development Manager
JUMP! Foundation
Quarter 3 has proved to be a busy yet fruitful time for JUMP! Development. From expanding our J! Dev team to implementing JLCs in the Dominican Republic (July 23-24), Nicaragua (July 26-27), and Haiti (August 3-4), and establishing new partnerships in preparation for our upcoming JLCs in Southeast Asia, our staff, our partners, and our youth have been nothing but inspired and empowered. Just counting this quarter, we have been able to serve 525 youth in Latin America and develop the capacity of our partner, Global Potential. Thanks to you, J! Dev has been able to grow our team as well as expand the reach of JLCs into new territories. Having a team entirely dedicated to J! Development enabled us to design JLC’s implementation and evaluation framework, increased exposure of the JUMP! Foundation amongst various governmental and non-governmental organizations in Thailand and Kenya, and created more opportunities for collaboration across institutions. Moving forward, we hope to continue our impact on the communities which we serve and engage our youth to be positive changemakers.
JUMP! LEADERSHIP CONFERENCES IN LATIN AMERICA

JLC Latin America in Partnership with Global Potential

2016 marks the seventh year of a successful partnership between Global Potential and JUMP! Development. Over the past seven years, GP and J! Dev have collaborated and brought to life 27 youth Leadership Conferences in communities throughout Haiti, Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic, and the United States, serving over 3,300 participants.

During each conference, youths learn to build their confidence and become more connected to their local and global community by voicing their ideas on how to tackle problems facing their villages and neighborhoods, and the world at large. The conferences take place in each partner country for two conference days. The conferences are guided by Open Space Technology—the agenda and main topics of discussion are youth-led—JUMP!/GP simply create the open & safe space necessary for quality collaboration and cross-pollination of ideas. To establish trust and a sense of community among participants, Day 1 of each conference is filled with locally appropriate icebreakers and activities, JUMP!’s tried and true activities for community-building purpose that have been utilized by J! Schools and J! Experiences programs.

As with previous years, we selected winning Community Impact Projects from each JLC according to the following criteria: needs, target group, creativity, feasibility, sustainability, and social impact. It was our honor to have had our BBS partners Katie McGowan and Josh Payne participate in our Haiti JLC and get to know some of the youth we serve. As we concluded our Latin America JLCs in Haiti, Nicaragua, and the Dominican Republic, we feel encouraged by our youths’ potential for self-fulfillment and their passion towards community development.

Dominican Republic
Nicaragua
Haiti
JLC Dominican Republic (July 23-24)

The Dominican Republic JLC hosted a total of 205 participants (including 3 staff, 3 New York City Youth, and 13-15 students who were selected to participate as leaders) from 14 to 29 years of age in 14 communities. Topics ranging from drug addiction to international violence were raised, some of which were difficult to discuss because of the sensitivity of the topics. We were proud of our youths’ engagement throughout the seminars to tackle these challenging issues in their communities. In the end, five community projects were designed and proposed from the participants: two community clean-up projects, a community nutrition program, a community basketball court, and the winning project—finalization of the community center. Community centers are vital to the community and are used for many different purposes, including community meetings, social events, educational centers, food market, emergency safe space, and general gathering for the youth. The youth of Mena Abajo area are committed to revitalizing the center by installing windows and locks, and equipping it with supplies such as chairs, tables, books, and computers. Their long term vision is connecting electricity and Internet access to this center.

“The conference showed that people who aren’t physically with us do think about us and will leave the comfort of their homes to come here” – Community Testimonial

“I learned to manage my life better and be more responsible for my future.” – Student Testimonial
JLC Nicaragua (July 26-27)

The Nicaragua JLC hosted 155 youths from 16 communities for an engaging and inspiring two days. The youths identified a total of 32 challenges in their communities, such as abortion and global warming, that were discussed in workshops. Ten Impact Projects were designed and presented in front of the selection panel, including school construction and enhancement, electric plant and water tank establishment, and community-related infrastructure. The winning project was the community water pump reparation. The project would benefit the entire community as it would reestablish a flow of water from the community’s well and aqueduct directly to the homes. It is budgeted for 8,475 Córdoba (about 291 USD) and it would greatly benefit the community, particularly the women, because they will no longer have to walk long distances to obtain water elsewhere.

“All cultures are enriched through the youth’s ideas, which makes me think the world is a village because the reflections of these ideas are not so different.” – Community Testimonial

“This conference will encourage me to continue with my school and social activities.” – Student Testimonial
JLC Haiti (August 3-4)

The Haiti JLC was held in Foret des Pins, a community located in the mountains in the southeastern part of Haiti. 165 youths from 22 communities were represented at the conference. Similar issues to the DR JLC, such as sexuality and environment, were discussed during the conference. Additionally, some unexpected but bold topics such as discrimination and feminism were also raised and explored. It was wonderful to learn that our BBS partners, Katie and Josh, were able to witness the power of design thinking and open-space discussions at the Haiti JLC and were inspired by our youths. Our passionate and creative participants designed a total of 12 Community Impact Projects, ranging from establishment of various types of schools to environmental restoration. The winning project was a reforestation project of Wanamet, Haiti. Deforestation is a critical issue in Haiti, specifically in the region of Fonde Verrette where the 2016 Conference took place. Clearing land for agricultural purposes has detrimental environmental impacts. Further, trees are a valuable commodity for Haiti as it supplies fuel from coal as well as building material. Deforestation has negative agricultural impacts and can lead to several imbalances ecologically and environmentally, which result in declines in habitat and biodiversity, soil erosion, floods, wildlife extinction, increase in global warming, and climate imbalance. Deforestation also affects water cycle: trees absorb groundwater and release it into the atmosphere during transpiration. Therefore, deforestation automatically changes the climate into a drier one and affects the water table. The objective of this project is to plant trees in order to protect the land. Community members will volunteer to support this project, which will be implemented in a span of six months, during which the team will plant trees and raise awareness in the community about the importance of reforestation.

“I used to think it was impossible to have direct contact with youth from outside this country but now I see that it is possible.” – Community Testimonial

“It helps me to increase my leadership capacity and allows me to better concentrate and find ways to help my community” – Student Testimonial
ORGANIZATIONAL CAPACITY BUILDING

Team members
This quarter we had new team members from our China Hub who started working on the conferences in Latin America and China.

Duke Xu
Duke is proud to be a native Shanghainese who knows where to find the most authentic local food. His childhood within the Chinese education system inspired him to pursue a deeper understanding of education, and his lifelong goal is to build an equal, safe, and transformative learning environment for all youth no matter where they are from. Later, Duke obtained his Master of Education degree at Vanderbilt University. Along the journey, Duke initiated two technology start-up projects. He also led a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting stronger relationships between college students from China and the U.S. Most recently, he supported a leadership academy to train school principals in the U.S as a program assistant.

Joanna Darrington
Jo is an adventurer passionate about all human potential around the world! She was born and raised in a changing multi-cultural family in South East Asia. She spent a year during university to explore China as an outdoor guide and Cuba as an exchange student. She embarked on many adventures during her time as a student, from participating in a Bike Polo competition in Taiwan to volunteering as a Chinese language mentor for Cuban students in the UK. Jo worked as a supply teacher in UK, experiencing many different kinds of schools. She also worked as a manager for a Spanish language school. Jo is very involved in the LGBTQ+ and feminist community as well as in technology and art. She is a co-founder of Q-Space, a queer and feminist friendly grassroots community maker space in a hutong in Beijing that is dedicated to skills and knowledge sharing for empowerment.

Jiayue Ren
Jiayue Ren worked as the fundraising assistant at Beijing LGBT Center and the membership intern at Friends of Nature NGO. As a student who is pursuing a master's degree in International Trade at Beijing International Studies University, she attended the UNCTAD 14 Youth Forum in Nairobi, Kenya, in July 2016. Also, she was one of the three participants who represented China during the 2nd SEAMEO Leadership Youth Forum in Bangkok in March 2016. Jiayue currently serves as the JUMP! Leadership Conference China Officer to help us launch our pilot, and hopefully the first of many, China JLCs.
ORGANIZATIONAL PARTNERSHIPS

Managing existing partnerships

This quarter we successfully wrapped up RUKA!, our Kenya Nairobi JLC in collaboration with the PaaMoja Initiative, as we received their expense and impact reports. As PaaMoja begins to support the winning teams in operationalizing their Community Impact Projects, we are excited to see our youths being empowered to make a difference in their communities and are ready to help guide their efforts.

Developing new partnerships

The BEAM Education Foundation, JUMP!’s development partner on Project JJGG (Big Brother Big Sister) since 2014, has extended the partnership to piloting its first JUMP! Leadership Conference in Chiang Mai, Thailand, from November 5-6 this year. BEAM—Bridging Educational Access to Migrants—exists to fulfill the unmet needs of Burmese migrant students in pursuing higher education. The two-day conference, themed “Rising Lanterns of Chiang Mai,” will work with Thai and Burmese migrant youths to tackle challenges defined by participants as well as inspire innovative solutions.

JUMP! Development has forged a new partnership with FEDA—Friends Economic Development Association—a Cambodia-based NGO working to alleviate poverty and empower people living in four of the villages in Wat Kor Commune, Battambang. FEDA will host a Cambodia Educator Conference based on the JLC model from January 13-15, 2017 (tentative) in Battambang. The conference will convene about 50 educators from all over Cambodia to discuss and present solutions to local challenges.

Ayana Journeys, a Cambodian travel company offering tours through experiential learning focused on understanding of global issues, has been a partner of JUMP! Experience in assisting with its programs. The partnership will expand into JUMP! Development as Ayana facilitators devote their time and skills at the January 2017 FEDA/JUMP! Conference in Battambang, Cambodia.

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES

Here is JUMP! Development's exciting list of activities in this upcoming quarter (October 1-December 31):

- J! JLC Beijing (November 5-6)
- J! JLC Chiang Mai (November 5-6)
- J! Introduction of Irene Wu, our new JUMP! Development Manager
- J! Updates on partnerships
THANK YOU

On behalf of everyone at JUMP! Foundation, I would like to express our deepest gratitude for your generous donation to and support for our mission. With your financial contributions, you have demonstrated your deep commitment to our work on youth development.

We sincerely welcome members of BBS to attend the JUMP! Leadership Conferences or any of our programs for this year. It would be our honor to have you experience our youths being engaged, inspired, and empowered through our programs.

Thank you again for your continuing support. We always strive to live up to our achievements of previous years. We promise to keep you updated of our progress.

If you require further details or should you have any questions about the activities, feel free to contact me at irene.wu@jumpfoundation.org or at +86 18311050232.

Sincerely,

Irene Wu,
Development Manager
JUMP! Foundation
Quarterly Report
01 Oct – 31 Dec 2016

Submitted by: Irene Wu
Date: 20 Feb 2017
In Quarter 4, our programming focused on the region where the organization and its staff has deep and strong ties—Asia. The November JLC with the BEAM Education Foundation occurred in JUMP!’s headquarter country, Thailand. Similarly, the pilot JLC in China was organized in Beijing where the JUMP! China hub is based. Lastly, our Cambodia JLC in partnership with FEDA Cambodia, which was scheduled for November but was delayed until January, was held in Battambang where JUMP! Experiences has led experiential learning programs in 2015 and 2016. Each of the three conferences was centered around a different theme and population, creating the most wonderful diversity in ideas and inspirations.

Organizationally, Quarter 4 witnessed the arrival of a new J! Development manager as well as tremendous involvement of JUMP! staff in J! Development activities. We are deeply excited and encouraged by the expansion of J! Development both within and outside of the organization.
JUMP! LEADERSHIP CONFERENCES IN ASIA

JLC Chiang Mai in Partnership with BEAM Education Foundation
November 5-6 | Chiang Mai, Thailand

For a long time, Thailand has hosted migrants and refugees from neighboring countries fleeing from conflicts and poverty. As of 2011, there were about 1.3 million officially registered migrant workers from Cambodia, Laos, and Myanmar, 80 percent of whom were Myanmar people¹. Despite the Thai government’s effort to integrate migrant children into its education system, over 200,000 of the migrant children were out of school in 2014². The Chiang Mai JUMP! Leadership Conference in partnership with BEAM Education Foundation aimed to empower Myanmar migrant youths by engaging them in creating innovative solutions to some of their most pressing community challenges.

The two-day conference welcomed 87 young and passionate youths, most of whom were Myanmar migrants and Thai ethnic youths. The majority of the participants were students and alumni from BEAM Education. Other NGOs that were involved include Thai Freedom House, MAP Foundation, Daughters Rising, and Thabyay Education.

For two days, participants delve deeply into topics such as education, civil war, drug usage, human rights, and poverty. On Day 2, 14 projects on various topics were created and presented. At the end, three projects were chosen by a panel of judges and participants to receive seed funding while one project would receive mentorship. The three winning projects were a hotline that provides information on existing non-formal education resources, an education program for migrant workers on mosquito-borne illnesses, and a project that reaches out to migrant workers about traffic laws and licensure information.

“My favorite part was getting to learn and share different ideas with people on what we want to do for our society...this is a great opportunity for me.”

-Niang Lin, Participant

China Pilot: Beijing JLC at the International School of Beijing
November 5-6 | Beijing, China

The first-ever JUMP! Leadership Conference in China was piloted at the International School of Beijing (ISB), a long-time partner of the J! Schools and J!Experiences programs. The conference focused on diversity, bringing together participants from various provinces across China with different backgrounds in socio-economic statuses, education, and ethnicity. Participants engaged in activities centered around personal discovery, leadership development, and empathy. The first day was mostly devoted to exploring various community issues that the participants have identified, while the second day focused on the UN SDGs and Teaspoons for Change—an organization developed by one of JUMP!’s champions, d’Arcy Lunn— which helped participants connect community challenges to larger global issues and to think of ways that they could make a difference, starting with themselves. Various NGOs such as PEER, Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs, and Voice of Feminists educated the participants with various social issues with wonderful presentations.

“Through our ideas and the new ideas we encountered, we found similarities between all the community challenges and we could see we were not alone. There are so many people that share our ideas. We can use these ideas to build a better society, and through practical actions we will make them a reality.”

- Yiwen Wu, Participant
JLC Battambang in Partnership with FEDA Cambodia
January 14-15 | Battambang, Cambodia

Before the Cambodian genocide carried out by the Khmer Rouge from 1975 to 1979, educators were historically a highly respected profession in Cambodia. Gone with the death of a quarter of Cambodia’s population was many of the country’s traditions, including its reverence for intellect and education. Teachers fell into the bottom class of its society, which manifested as a disparity in education access, quality, and equity, particularly in rural areas. The Battambang JLC for Local Educator Empowerment brought together 43 participants for a two-day discussion about education problems and potential solutions in Cambodia. The participants came from all walks of life, including local teachers, a few government officials, university students, and monks from a local Buddhist university. The top five education issues in Cambodia being identified included: school corruption, parents’ lack of engagement with their children’s education, student-teacher relationships, school leadership, and community health affecting students’ academic achievements. Six total Community Impact Projects were proposed, and one was chosen: a sixth-grade afterschool reading project aimed to bridge the gap between the end of elementary school and the beginning of secondary school. This grade level is particularly important as students who cannot pass the reading test will effectively be shut out of the formal education system. A major highlight of the conference comes from participants’ feedback that this event gave them a sense of agency in addressing some of the education problems in their local communities—although big changes take time and some systemic solutions may need to come from the government, as individuals they can begin taking positive actions and be role models for others to follow.
IMPACT PROJECT PROGRESS UPDATE

Kenya RUKA! Leadership Conference with Paamoja Initiative

This quarter, we followed up with our local NGO partners on the implementation of Community Impact Projects at each JLC location. This report highlights “Positive Ghetto Mentality” from the Kenya (Nairobi) JLC.

“Positive Ghetto Mentality” was the runner-up project at the Kenya (Nairobi) JLC. This project aims to improve youth-police relations by raising awareness and cross-communications between the two groups.

Despite school, work, and other personal factors, youths from the team met up and organized their first event, which took place on November 5. The event was held at the CDF Driving School in Huruma, for which 19 youths from Mlango kubwa, Mathare, and Huruma areas and two police officers attended. Inspector Wambua and Mr. Musamusi, the two police officers, gave talks as well as answering questions on youth arrests.

So far, the biggest challenge our various NGO partners have cited on project implementation has been the availability of youths in terms of their schedule and transportation. Most of these youths are full-time students and team members do not live close to each other, which presents a real difficulty when scheduling meetings. Moving forward, we will take it into consideration when deciding which projects to fund and mentor.
Last quarter, we bid our former JUMP!Development manager, Indra Ganzorig, farewell as she embarked on a new journey at Mahidol University International College pursuing Tourism Management. This quarter, we welcomed Irene Wu, our new manager who will be based in the JUMP! China hub.

Forever a practical idealist, Irene has tried to create social changes by performing as a professional musician, teaching youngsters in American public schools, contributing to state-wide education initiatives and federal research studies, and working on community development projects in Kenya. Born in Beijing and raised in Japan and Hong Kong, Irene took a leap of faith to the United States at the age of 15 in search of a better education. Her experience living and working in five drastically varied countries across three continents convinced her that social cohesion is a prerequisite for sustainable development, and education is the gateway to achieving social cohesion. Irene is incredibly grateful and humbled that through her work with JUMP! she gets to work alongside future generations as they discover their responsibility as global citizens, develop as changemakers, and ultimately, work collectively to leave the world a little bit (or a lot) better than how they inherited it.

Michou was born in New York City to an American mother and Cameroonian father. He grew up in Vermont, and developed a love for people, travel and experiential education at an early age. At the age of 11, Michou decided to take a chance and ran away to join the circus. For three summers he participated in Circus Smirkus, a traveling youth circus. It was through his time at the circus that he learned that anything can be done if you are willing to put the time and energy into practicing and making it happen. Michou’s sense of adventure and pushing the boundaries of traditional education led him to pursue academic interests abroad. Michou has studied abroad in Costa Rica, Spain, Thailand, and conducted a major creative research project on storytelling traditions in Cameroon. During his last semester of college, Michou completed an internship in Chiang Mai, Thailand, at a small, education-focused, community-based organization where he worked on projects to advance the Myanmar migrant education system in Thailand, and was offered a teaching position upon completion of his internship. Michou currently manages JUMP! Leadership Conference throughout Southeast Asia.
ORGANIZATIONAL PARTNERSHIPS

Managing Existing Partnerships

Global Potential (GP) has been JUMP! Development’s program partner since 2009. Last quarter, the Latin America JLCs wrapped up with 525 participants and three Community Impact Projects. This quarter, we continue to support our young changemakers as they begin to implement their projects.

Developing New Partnerships

Educating Girls of Rural China (EGRC) is an NGO based in Gansu, China dedicated to high school and university access for impoverished young women from rural Western China. They do so through financial support and mentorship. This Fall, JUMP! Development will be partnering with EGRC to bring our leadership program to Gansu. The program will also train and employ EGRC alumni to facilitate the workshops and the conference.

Wedu is a Thailand-based Foundation that seeks to equip and empower young women to be future leaders. They do so by providing lifelong mentorship and postsecondary education financing options for young females who show leadership potential. Through a strategic partnership, J! Development acts as their “talent spotter” identifying promising young females in J! Development programs who will then be promoted to the Wedu network. With this strategic partnership, the bright and inspired young women participating in J!Development programs will now have another champion to support and help them achieve their dreams.

Green Umbrella is a community-based NGO in Put Sor district Bati commune in Takeo province, near Phnom Penh, the capital of Cambodia. It focuses on providing quality basic education. Since 2012, Green Umbrella has established a primary school to provide education for children in the community who qualify for the national poverty card. JUMP! Development aims to partner with Green Umbrella in 2017 for a J! Development program focused on local teacher training.

UPCOMING EVENTS

In Spring 2017, JUMP! Development will focus on strengthening existing program structures by creating templates for better standardization of core program elements, which will allow for higher quality of adaptation to local context as the program is implemented in various locations. In 2017, we have tentative JUMP! Development programs in the following locations:

- Phnom Penh, Cambodia with Green Umbrella (June)
- Dominican Republic with Global Potential (August)
- Yogyakarta, Indonesia with TBD (October)
- Chiang Mai, Thailand with BEAM Education Foundation (November)
- Yangon, Myanmar with BEAM Education Foundation (November)
